Upcoming 127 Sale will be silver anniversary edition

What is billed as the “World’s Longest Outdoor Yard Sale” will be celebrating a milestone when the bargain hunters event kicks off. The 25th silver anniversary year of the trek that covers several states will officially be held the first weekend of August. Although the sale is unofficially earmarked for the weekend, motorists and bargain hunters can actually look for the vendors and homeowners along the route to be out in force the day after the calendar changes from July to August.

The US 127 Sale dates are August 2-5, but as past indications hold true, people can expect vendors to be lined up along the sale route by next Wednesday, August 1.

The sale reaches a portion of some five states, with items ranging from the size of a coin to that of a vehicle that will have a bargain sticker price attached.

Although sale locations can be seen all along U.S. 127 from north to south in Clinton County, still the primary area—at least for another year—will be that at Mountain View Park. There, out-of-town and state tourists will be able to find not only all types of sale items, but good food as well. All the proceeds from that sale go to support the park.

Despite high fuel prices and a continued lag in the economy, this year’s sale is expected to attract about its normal amount of travelers looking for bargains.

In recent years in Clinton County, the number of vendors and local businesses and organizations that participate in the annual event have increased. This year, for example, there seems to be more locations where vendors can rent a space to sell their items.

As usual, many local groups and organizations use the 127 Sale to help raise money for various causes to help fund their endeavors.

During the approximate five-day total event in Clinton County, there are many repeat vendors, not to mention repeat customers who travel through the county and make annual stops at their favorite sale and/or food locations. Among those stops for many is at Lands Chapel Church, located in the Aaron Community not far from the Russell County line. Many repeat visitors stop by for fellowship and the always delicious food available.

The tourism created by the sale also cannot be overlooked for the Albany and Clinton County area, as extra money is spent on food, gas, lodging and other products purchased locally that isn’t directly associated with the sale itself.

See 127, page 8

Mountain View Park has long been a “hot-spot” for local 127 Sale activity, and is expected to again when the event gets underway next week for the 25th year.

Pam Miniard, art teacher at the Clinton County Middle School, worked last week on an art project on the front sidewalk at the entryway to the school. The large Bulldog she is painting on the concrete sidewalk comes at the end of large pawprints that lead down the entryway to the facility. At left, Miniard used a smaller sketch with color schemes depicted as a guide for the larger Bulldog.

Pam Miniard gives ‘welcome’ a new look at C.C.M.S.

The Clinton County Middle School is getting somewhat of a face lift. Nothing structurally is being done, but Art teacher Pam Miniard is adding decorations to the sidewalks and to the driveway coming into the school.

“I just thought it would be good to do this,” Miniard said. “I hope it might give a little pride and school spirit to the kids.”

Miniard said she worked three days on the paw prints leading into the school and will spend another day and a half on the Bulldog in the entryway of the building.

Clinton County Middle School Principal Pam Bale said she can’t wait for the people in the community to see this.

“It brings a lot of pride and school spirit,” Bale said. “I hope the community sees this as a good welcome. She is a phenomenal teacher and a great person. She was out there when it was 102 degrees one day. She is very giving to the students and that’s why she did that ... it’s for the community and for the students especially.”

Another reason for dressing up the outside of the middle school is to show people from other counties that Clinton County has pride in its facility.

“I can’t wait for other teams and other visitors to arrive and just hear the comments,” Bale said.

According to Bale, the project started in March of this year.

“She came to me and asked what I thought about it and anything she wants to do to help improve the aesthetics of the school, I’m all for it,” Bale said. “I told her ‘by all means ... what ever you need I will get for you.’ It kind of evolved from that.”

Bale said the original project only included the paw print down the driveway into the school, but later Miniard came to Bale with the idea of putting

Filing begins for local non-partisan races

The weather is still hot and schools haven’t yet started, but the 2012 fall political campaign is now more or less officially underway in Albany and Clinton County, as four persons have already tossed their hats in the ring for some non-partisan races that will appear on several precinct ballots in November.

All six seats that make up Albany City Council, as well as three of the five seats that comprise the Clinton County Board of Education, are up for election this fall. Those districts include the 2nd District (Seventy-Six and Cave Springs), the 3rd District (Highway, Illwill and Speck), and District Four (North, East and West Albany) precincts.

There may still also be races in the 3rd and 5th Magisterial Districts to fill unexpired terms, depending on whether or not the local Democrat party chooses nominees in those districts to run against the already nominated Republican party candidates.

King excited to be back in government, says she will run for Judge/Executive Having always been in politics since her teenage years, the newest temporary member of the Clinton County Fiscal Court is extremely excited about being back in county government, albeit in a different role than in the past.

Former Judge/Executive Charlene King, who already has one fiscal court meeting under her belt since being appointed to fill a vacancy on July 13, said “I love it—I love being in county government” during an interview last week, two days after the Clinton County Fiscal Court had met on July 17.

King, a native of Clinton County, is a long-time business-woman and political figure, having been in the oil business and also operated an office supply house which she has since sold to a major company. “I’ve always been politically involved and was youth chairman (of the Democrat party) since voting age,” she said.

Circuit court convictions upheld

A Kentucky Court of Appeals has upheld two jury trial convictions that were appealed from Clinton Circuit Court, one involving charges of manufacturing methamphetamine and another involving theft by unlawful taking. A three-panel appeals court was unanimous in each decision, with both being rendered last Friday, July 20.

One case involved a methamphetamine conviction that began in the spring of 2010 when a Clinton County Grand Jury indicted Kenneth J. Neal with manufacturing meth, possession of a meth precursor, possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia.

The charges arose from events that began March 11, 2012 when Officer Travis Neal of the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources observed a car parked near the ramp at Carter’s Dock Landing in Wayne County. As the officer pulled up to the car, it sped away. The officer pursued the vehicle into Clinton County and came upon the vehicle crashed into an embankment. The driver, Neal, attempted to flee but became entangled in a barb-wire fence. Officer Neal then caught up to him and placed him under arrest.

From that point, then Deputy Sheriff James Guffey and another officer took over the investigation and discovered the vehicle wasn’t registered to Neal, who stated he had either borrowed or bought it. However, he did give a consent to search the car.

Democrats set to pick candidates for magisterial races

The newly appointed Clinton County Democrat Executive Committee has called a meeting for next Thursday, August 2 at 7 p.m. at the Clinton County Courthouse. The meeting will be held in the upstairs courtroom and chaired by newly appointed chairman Steve Clark and assisted by Vice-Chairwoman Amanda Rich.

The purpose of the meeting is to elect candidates for the 3rd and 5th District Magistrate seats in this November’s general election. Any man or woman who lives in either district and has the desire to seek the Democrat nomination for either of the district offices must send a self-nomination

Mystery Dinner Theater planned at Good Neighbors Theatre

Lords and Ladies, Dukes and Duchesses, Knights and Ladies in Waiting—You are hereby informed of an evening of jovial entertainment and hearty fare not to be missed in our fair realm at Castle Calamity.

In modern English--invitations are currently issued to the community and supporters of Good Neighbors Theatre to the Annual Fundraiser Dinner.

For the first time the event will be spread over two evenings, Friday, August 17 and Saturday, August 18. Guests are asked to arrive at 7:00 PM at Good Neighbors Theatre, 8780 Highway 111 in Byrdstown. Seating is limited each evening and reservations are required.

When making reservations, please indicate the night you prefer to attend, as reservations per evening will be taken in the order received. Every effort will be made to accommodate your choice of evening.

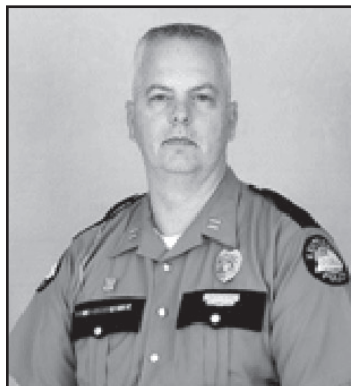

To insure your choice of evenings, respond early by mail to PO Box 493, Byrdstown, TN 38549 on or before August 10. (Providing your phone number will help in case your choice is full.) Include a minimum donation of $50 per person. Checks may be made payable to GNT. For further information, call 931-864-8315.

This year's event promises to be great fun as guest enjoy a catered four course dinner in Medieval style (except you will have forks and knives, rather than using your fingers and tossing scraps onto hay covered floors for the dogs to lap up later).

Throughout the evening clues will be given for guests to solve a ghastly murder mystery which has taken place within the walls of Castle Calamity. For the brave, come dressed in period correct costume. Others may choose to make it a special evening in party festive attire.

In the event you must miss the merriment, donations are gratefully accepted in support of GNT in order to continue renovations to the building and producing live theatrical productions.

FSA County Committee nominations end August 1

Kentucky's USDA Farm Service Agency (FSA) State Executive Director John McCauley, wants to remind farmers and landowners that local Farm Service Agency (FSA) county committee nomination began on Friday, June 15 and will continue until next week, ending August 1.

"I urge all farmers and ranchers to participate in this year's county committee elections by nominating candidates by the August 1 deadline," said McCauley. "County committees are a vital link between the farm community and the U.S. Department of Agriculture and provide a voice to landowners, farmers and ranchers so that they have an opportunity for their opinions and ideas to be heard."

To be eligible to serve on an FSA county committee, a person must participate or cooperate in a program administered by FSA, be eligible to vote in a county committee election and reside in the local administrative area in which the person is a candidate.

Farmers and ranchers may nominate themselves or others, and organizations representing minorities and women also may nominate candidates. To become a candidate, an eligible individual must sign the nomination form, FSA-669A. The form and other information about FSA county committee elections are available online at <http://www.fsa.usda.gov/elections>. Nomination forms for the 2012 election must be postmarked or received in the local USDA Service Center by close of business on Aug. 1, 2012. Elections will take place this fall.

While FSA county committees do not approve or deny farm operating loans, they make decisions on disaster and conservation programs, emergency programs, commodity price support loan programs and other agricultural issues. Members serve three-year terms. Nationwide, there are about 7,700 farmers and ranchers serving on FSA county committees. Committees consist of three to 11 members that are elected by eligible producers.

FSA will mail ballots to eligible voters beginning Nov. 5. The voted ballots are due back to the local county office either via mail or in person by Dec. 3. Newly elected committee members and alternates take office on Jan. 1, 2013.

On June 4, Secretary Vilsack announced his intention to strengthen the FSA county committee system by appointing voting members from the socially disadvantaged (SDA) community in county jurisdictions that lack fair representation. The goal is to ensure locally elected representatives reflect the diverse interests of their communities.

Contact your local FSA Service Center for addition information.

“Should One Be Baptized By Immersion Who Has Already Been Sprinkled?”

The word baptize is not a translation of any Greek word! It is a transliteration. And there is a great deal of difference. The Greek word from which we get the word baptize is baptizo. A bit later I will explain why the word was not translated, but right now let's examine that Greek word baptizo.

It is derived from a verb bapto. The primary meaning of this verb is to “cover wholly with a fluid.” It means to dip or plunge.

It can mean to moisten a part of one's person as when one washes his hands in a basin of water. He immerses his hands in the water.

Bible baptism, then always means immersion.

Was Jesus immersed? Yes, He certainly was. Matthew 3:16 says, “And Jesus, when he was baptized, went up straightaway out of the water; and, lo, the heavens were opened unto him, and he saw the Spirit of God descending like a dove, and lighting upon him.”

Why did John the Baptist go to the Jordan River to baptize? If he had simply wanted to sprinkle someone, he could have done that anywhere. But John 3:23 has an enlightening word: “And John also was baptizing in Aenon, near to Salim, because there was much water there; and they came, and were baptized.”

“There was much water there.”

A professor in a Christian school explained to the students that Philip had baptized the Ethiopian eunuch by sprinkling. There were no large streams where the eunuch was baptized, he said. Obviously, then, Philip had sprinkled the man.

One of the students, scheduled to be ordained by a Baptist church, came to me. He was greatly troubled. He had always believed that baptism was by immersion. But this teacher in a non-denominational school had emphasized the fact that it didn't really matter and had proved his point by the Ethiopian eunuch. I suggested that we simply read the Bible narrative and see if we could decide, without delving into the Greek, how the eunuch was baptized. We turned to Acts 8 and began reading with verse 36. The men came to “a certain water; and the eunuch said, See, here is water. What doth hinder me to be baptized?” Then in verse 38, “... and they both went down into the water, both Philip and the eunuch; and he baptized him. (39) And when they were come up out of the water ...”

Was the eunuch sprinkled? Nonsense! Had Philip intended sprinkling him, it would not have been necessary to look for an adequate supply of water. Philip could simply have baptized the fellow from his canteen! Even in the desert, he could have spared a thimbleful of water!

No, the two men went down into the water together and the eunuch was immersed and then the two men came back out of the water.

Incidentally, even the preposition used concerning baptism means going into the midst of the water. Even the preposition would indicate immersion.

The Significance of Immersion

Baptism pictures a burial. (Incidentally, this is another reason we know baptism means immersion. It means being covered up because it pictures a burial. The next time a horse dies on your ranch, just try burying him by slapping a shovel of dirt over his dead body and you are in for a very interesting experience! Believe me, if you have anything to think with, you are going to be a firm believer in covering, not just sprinkling, a dead horse!)

Baptism is a burial. It pictures the death and burial and resurrection of Christ. We follow Christ in baptism because we believe in His death, burial and resurrection.

More than that, we believe that we who were dead in trespasses and sin have been made alive through Jesus Christ and we are now going to “walk in newness of life” (Rom. 6:4b).

Baptism also means we believe that we, too, shall be raised from the dead if we die before Christ returns. Should His second coming take place in our lifetime, we will be raised and caught up to meet Him.

Jacob Williams graduates from Rogers Scholars leadership program

Clinton County High School student Jacob Williams has graduated from this summer's second class of The Center for Rural Development's 2012 Rogers Scholars youth leadership program.

Williams is the son of Mike and Teresa Williams of Albany.

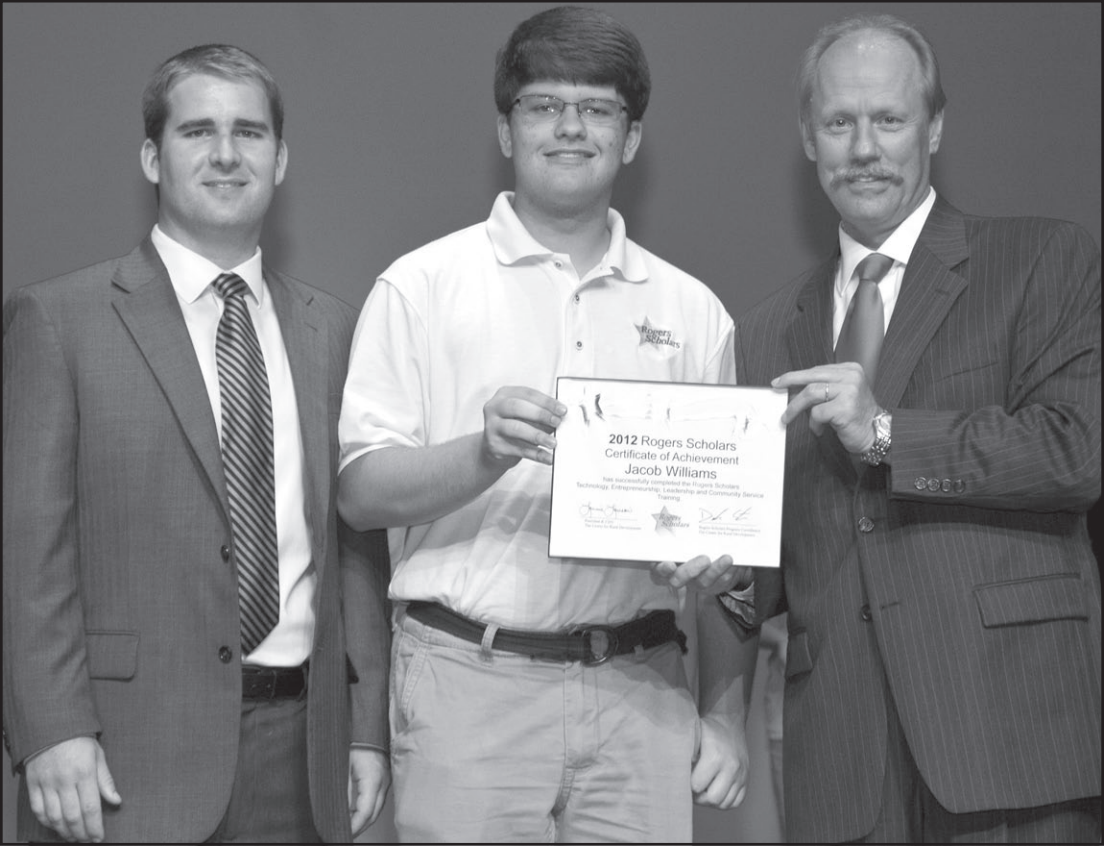

The Rogers Scholars program—The Center's flagship youth program—provides leadership and exclusive scholarship opportunities for rising high school juniors in Southern and Eastern Kentucky and encourages graduates to build their careers in the region.

“The Rogers Scholars program challenged me throughout the week to push the boundaries and do things I had never dreamed of,” said Williams. “It truly was an experience of a lifetime.”

Students apply during their sophomore year and attend the Rogers Scholars program before the start of their junior year in high school.

Graduates of the program also earn access to exclusive college scholarship offers from some of the state's top-ranked colleges and universities.

For more information about Rogers Scholars or any of the other youth programs at The Center, contact Delaney Stephens at 606-677-6000 or email youth@centertech.com.

Lonnie Lawson, right, president and CEO of The Center for Rural Development, and Delaney Stephens, left, youth programs coordinator and community liaison, present Rogers Scholars graduate Jacob Williams of Clinton County with a certificate acknowledging his completion in the program. Williams, a junior at Clinton County High School, graduated from the 2012 Rogers Scholars program held July 8-13 on the grounds of The Center in Somerset.

King

of now schools’ superintendent Charlotte Bernard, King said she had received many calls from supporters asking her to seek the position. She said the process in which a person is chosen begins with the local party executive committee, which makes a recommendation to the governor.

King said the reason it took so long, about two months, to fill the seat vacated by Bernard in the 5th Magisterial District was that it was apparently learned in Frankfort there was no sanctioned organized Democrat party in the county.

The former judge turned magistrate said she loved county government and believes she can help make a positive difference in the few months she will be on the court prior to the general election this November.

King feels her nine years experience as the county chief elected officer will be an asset and noted she had some concerns and would work with the fiscal court to help get some things done.

One area in which she noted needed attention was county road department equipment, noting most of it was old and she feels there may not be enough money in the current fiscal year’s budget to cover costs of equipment that is needed. “We need to start looking for some grants or some type funding for better road department equipment,” she noted.

King said she was looking forward to the next few months and although noting the roll of a magistrate was different than that of the judge/executive, it was still an important one and feels the fiscal court can do much to help the county.

a Bulldog bursting out of the concrete in the entry way.

“She came to me and asked about a Bulldog that’s busting out of the concrete and I said ‘That sounds great,’” Bale said. “I think it’s important for people to understand that she did that because she wanted to. It was all on her own time and it’s just because she loves the kids.”

Miniard has also, with the help of her students, painted on the inside of the building, including the walls, glass and ceiling tiles.

“I’ve pretty much just shared with her ... anything she wants to do that will involve the students and showcase their abilities and their talents, I’m all for it.”

Bale said the students love painting on the ceiling tiles and working on projects within the school.

“They love it. I think they even went home and told their parents and some of them even commented on the glass last year,” Bale said. “When you tell them that the students did it, then they are amazed at the talent we have.”

Students and parents will have a face to face look at the new art work Monday night, July 30, as fifth grade orientation begins at 5 p.m. The sixth through eighth grade will meet at 6:30 p.m. on the same night.

The first day of school for students will be Tuesday, August 7.

“We have talked about and have planned, like we have a math night, incorporating art and music into our Title One night,” Bale said. “It will kind of be like a showcase for our students.”

Bale said she is still in the planning stages of the events, but hopes to get that in the works soon.

“It may be in conjunction with our reading night and our math night,” Bale said. “We want to kind of expand on that.”

non-partisan races is Tuesday, August 14 at 4 p.m. local prevailing time, with the drawing for ballot positions to take place two days later in the County Clerk’s Office.

As of noon Saturday, July 21, four people—including three incumbents—had filed, and three of the four candidates thus far are running for school board.

In the 2nd school board district, both incumbent and current board chairman Ned Davis as well as Kenny Stinson had originally filed for the seat, however on Monday of this week, Clinton County Clerk Jim Elmore informed the Clinton County News that Stinson had withdrawn from the race.

In the 3rd District, incumbent Paula Key has filed for a second term for school board.

In the races for the Albany City Council seats, incumbent city councilwoman Tonya Thrasher is the first to file for a city council seat.

Those local races, coupled with it being a Presidential election year, may mean a heavier than average turnout at the polls in Clinton County on general election day, as at least nine of the 13 total county precincts may have at least one local race in which to cast a ballot.

Another important date for new voters, or those who have had their names removed due to not voting in several years, is that of October 9. That is the final day a person can register to vote in time to be eligible to cast a ballot in the November election.

The Clinton County News will publish weekly updates on local candidates as they file for respective office through the filing deadline period in mid-August.

The new magistrate also weighed in on the connector road issue that has been discussed among officials lately, including at last week’s court session. She said it was to her understanding the state had done an over million dollar change order for a turning lane on the proposed road and felt the state would work with the county in getting additional funding needed to complete the project.

King also said the connector road, although on school property, was a county project because it would benefit the safety for both children and parents in the county. She said helping get funds to complete the road would be a priority.

King also said she was glad to see more women in politics and serving as elected officials in Clinton County, noting the number of women on the fiscal court, city council, school board, as well as District Judge Scarlett Latham. “Women can be an asset (in political office),” she noted, saying they often times deal with family budgets of their own.

King also noted concern about the expense associated with the ambulance service, primarily in the area of collecting a lot less than what the annual payroll for the EMS is, noting the extent to how much the occupational tax has to supplement the service.

The former judge said the most challenging part of being a magistrate now may be getting questions answered, saying all magistrates should have enough information ahead of time to have input.

King said the biggest change she has seen since she was judge/executive some 10 years ago was the cost of things now compared to the early 2000s when she left office. Payrolls, costs of road materials and all other services continues to go up, she noted, adding that a positive thing now is that the amount of occupational tax revenues collected by the county is a bit higher now than several years ago.

King said she was looking forward to working with the fiscal court members, saying the court had a good group of magistrates.

Following her appointment to the magisterial seat less than two weeks ago, King issued the following statement:

“I want to thank Governor Beshear and his staff, the Democratic Party of Clinton County, and all those Clinton Countians who not only encouraged me, but contacted the Governor’s office to request my appointment to the 5th Magisterial District.

“I will not be seeking the nomination to run in this fall’s election for this magisterial seat, because I plan on running for County Judge in the next election. Since I will be magistrate for only a short time I would like to help get as much done as possible in this limited amount of time.

“I want to work to put the (fiscal court) meetings back on television. I want to take a good look at the budget and where the money is going and work hard to help our county. I feel my past experience will be an asset to help this court and the people of Clinton County.”

REGIONAL NEWS

TIMES JOURNAL Russell Springs

The Russell Springs Family Dollar Store in the Key Village Shopping Center was robbed at gunpoint just after 3 p.m. on Monday, July 16, according to Russell Springs Police Chief Joe M. Irvin.

The suspect, 24-year-old Jessica H. Walter, was taken into custody on Bernard Ridge a short time after the incident by members of the Russell Springs Police Department and the Russell County Sheriff's Office.

Walker was taken into custody by authorities and the arresting officer was listed as Sgt. Troy Young of the Russell Springs Police Department.

Deputy Nick Bertram noticed a vehicle matching the description given to police following the incident at a mobile home near his residence. Upon Bertram approaching Walker's vehicle she put the car in gear and ran over Bertram's right foot while attempting to flee from the mobile home.

Walker was arrested just a short distance from the mobile home after she was cornered by Deputies Bertram and Clete McAninch.

Irvin said more than $200 in stolen cash from Family Dollar was recovered from Walker's vehicle as was a loaded 9mm handgun, which had reportedly been stolen from Bowling Green.

Walker is lodged in the Russell County Detention Center on charges of first degree robbery, receiving stolen property-firearm, theft by unlawful taking, first degree assault on a police officer, reckless driving, and first degree wanton endangerment-police officer.

In another incident that happened last Saturday night, July 14, the Russell Springs Police Department investigated an armed robbery on Bluebird Dr. in Russell Springs.

The mobile home of Jose Manuel Osorio was entered before midnight by two white males brandishing firearms and held the family at gunpoint, Irvin said.

Irvin said one shot was fired into a wall inside the home and a woman inside the home, Lucia Angulo, was taken to Russell County Hospital for treatment of her injuries. She was later released. Osorio was assaulted as well, according to Irvin.

The two male perpetrators fled the scene on foot before police arrived and were still at large, Irvin said.

Officer Nathan Bradshaw is leading the investigation.

Recently the Lake Cumberland Community Action Agency (LCCAA) lost a contract that has resulted in the loss of 13 positions, according to the agency.

Funding for the Family Preservation Program was first awarded to LCCAA in 2010 and it kept the program local for the following two years, but this year the funding for the program was contracted to Buckhorn Children & Family Services.

According to the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services Administration for Children & Families website, "Family preservation services are short-term, family-based services designed to assist families in crisis by improving parenting and family functioning while keeping children safe. These services developed largely in response to the over-reliance on out-of-home care that characterized services in the 1970s. Family preservation services grew out of the recognition that children need a safe and stable family and that separating children from their families is traumatic for them, often leaving lasting negative effects. These services build upon the conviction that many children can be safely protected and treated within their own homes when parents are provided with services and support and empowered to change their lives."

According to LCCAA their goal was to insure that children at risk of removal from the home had access to services, caseworkers, support systems and care so that the family could stay together. The intensive home services were scheduled at the family's request and at times that were convenient to families, including nights and weekends.

"The Family Preservation Program staff has been on call 24/7 to assist families in crisis at any hour of the day or night," stated Amy Roy, FPP Director.

In 2010 the Department for Community Based Services recognized LCCAA's abilities by awarding funding for the FPP, and would award it to them again the next year.

According to a press release by the LCCAA, local staff lived in each county served by LCCAA so that a case worker was always just a few minutes away from a family in need. Most importantly, the local staff were vital members of each local community and was intimately familiar with what that community had to offer the families as additional support.

Sometimes this was as simple as just knowing when the library offered reading or tutoring. Sometimes it went as far as knowing a landlord who could offer a family a safe place to live.

LCCAA employs local citizens, offering job training, educational scholarships and employment assistance. Many LCCAA employees have been with the agency for decades and began while they were still studying for their GED or finishing college. LCCAA's staff live, learn, and working in the local communities and are an important part of the region, reads the press release.

From July 2010 through June 2012 the LCCAA helped serve 232 families through the FPP program.

According to the release, upon completing FPP services, more than 95 percent of the families served remained, unified with their children living in the home.

Six months after services were provided, almost 95 percent of the children were still in the homes and were an integral part of their local community. This success has a strong partnership with local resources and providers and improves the quality of life for families who reach out to its programs.

It was an unexpected event that the Cabinet for Health and Family Services chose to go with an agency out of the region that includes Russell County. The awarding of the FPP to Buckhorn, a multi-state organization that runs residential, out-of-home placement facilities, including FPP as a sideline to its other programs.

According to the release, "Rather than being a lifelong resident of the region, like LCCAA and its staff, the large provider is just a corporation who can offer some type of services at a potentially lower cost per child. LCCAA will have to terminate 13 staff as a result of the loss of this program," and according to Roy, she is the only one remaining.

LCCAA is currently undergoing an effort to appeal the decision and have the contract awarded to it, stating in their release:

"LCCAA has filed a protest to the bid award, asking the state to consider the best interest of the children and families in the region when awarding state dollars for service provision."

"It is important that local communities speak out about who they want to serve their families and protect their children. Kentucky businesses that educate and train and employ local residents, who have contributed to the local economy for decades, and those who support the state's retirement systems and insurance pools are important. Our community and our community partners know how important it is that local people and local businesses contribute to the region. We are a vital community and we have the training, ability and resources to provide the best possible care to our children and youth," the release adds.

"LCCAA supports the region and is ready, willing, and able to provide these much needed services, while keeping our tax dollars at home," stated LCCAA Executive Director Bruce Brown.

WAYNE CO. OUTLOOK Monticello

Gary Abbott will serve as superintendent of Monticello Independent Schools an additional two years, following action taken by the Monticello School Board during their meeting on July 16. The board voted to extend the superintendent's contract by two years.

Board members discussed the matter last month when they conducted an evaluation of the superintendent. They gave Abbott a favorable evaluation, but did not vote to extend his contract at that time. Instead, they decided to wait until September when test scores are released before making a decision.

During their regular monthly meeting Monday evening, the board discussed the matter once again when board member Bill Denney made the motion to extend the superintendent's contract. Upon discussion, the motion passed with board members Denney, Nancy Duncan, Shelia Stephenson and Chris Dobbs voting in favor. Board member Jerry Lair voted no on the matter.

OVERTON CO. NEWS Livingston, TN

What appeared to be the scene of a possible beating or even murder in Livingston instead turned out to be the scene of an unplanned, self-inflicted injury.

According to Livingston Police Department Chief Greg Etheredge, the attendant at East Main Produce at the old Blue Circle Restaurant property in Livingston was opening up the produce stand Thursday, July 12 when she noticed large blood stains on some cardboard that was laying on the ground at the back of the business along with some personal items including a belt, blue jeans, and boots. Some of those items also appeared bloody.

Etheredge said, "It was the one day that it was raining, so you couldn't follow the blood anywhere, so we began to collect evidence."

"Old-fashioned police work did it. We knew that the blood wasn't very old. So ultimately, we found a check stub in the pant pocket, but all the rain had washed all the print off of it except the original printer's tag with the check number.

"We actually got out the old-fashioned magnifying glass and were able to see it was a company in Hermitage. So we ended up calling them and having them track the check number. About the same time our legwork had come up with the name, we had the name from the company."

Examples of the "legwork," Etheredge noted: In addition to the check stub, investigating officers were able to identify some of the clothing left at the scene. Officers had also discovered three bloody fingerprints at the scene that would have eventually identified the individual because he is on probation for a prior offense. The prints proved unnecessary, according to Etheredge, who said officers found the individual lived "about a block away."

"He had come back late that night. Presumably, he fell. He wasn't beat up. He wasn't assaulted. We know that from where his injury was. It was on his hand. It was like he'd fell and cut himself on a piece of glass."

Etheredge said the individual, who was not named because he was not formally charged with any offense, had reportedly sat at the scene for a time after tripping and suffering the cut. He was ordered to pay restitution to the business for the clean-up costs, Etheredge said.

According to Etheredge, Pickett County Sheriff's Department had brought its K-9 officer to the scene to aid in the investigation, and another was on the way from Nashville when the ultimate discovery was made that the individual was not an assault or murder victim.

"Our job is to be prepared for the worst-case scenario," Etheredge said.

Kalyn Marie Polochak will turn 18 next month in state prison as she serves a life sentence for helping her boyfriend murder his grandmother.

That boyfriend, Benjamin Bowers, 23, of Moore Road in Overton County, is already in prison serving a life sentence for the murder of Pearl Breeding, 72, who raised him.

Bowers pled guilty in the case last year, and prosecutors moved to have Polochak, who was only 16 at the time of the crime, tried as an adult.

Her trial began a week ago Monday in Overton County Criminal Court and ended Thursday afternoon, July 12 when the jury, after deliberating four hours, returned a verdict of guilty on all counts—first degree murder, conspiracy to commit first degree murder, felony murder, especially aggravated robbery, and theft over $1,000.

Court observers said the girl, who will turn 18 on August 6, wept upon hearing the verdict.

The case began December 11, 2010, when Pearl Breeding's daughter went to her home on Moore Road and found her 72-year-old mother dead. She had been strangled and suffocated, and her grandson and his girlfriend, who lived with her, were nowhere to be found.

The next day, Bowers and Polochak were arrested in Indiana. They had taken money from Breeding and had driven to Indiana in her car.

After being arrested, Bowers gave a statement to TBI agents confessing that he and the girl had planned and rehearsed the robbery and murder.

They had attacked her when she arrived home that day, strangled her with a dog leash, and suffocated her with a pillow over her head.

In Polochak's trial, state prosecutors introduced testimony from a DNA expert who said Polochak's DNA was found on the pillow that was used to suffocate the elderly woman.

The murder conviction means an automatic life sentence for Polochak, and she will not be eligible for parole for 51 years, according to District Attorney Randy York.

DA York and Assistant DA Mark Gore prosecuted the case. Attorney Mike Savage represented Polochak, and Judge David Patterson presided at trial.

Sports in Kentucky by Bob Watkins London to Hoover to Cooperstown, timing is everything “Timing is everything.

There is a tide in the affairs of men which, when taken at the flood leads on to fortune.”
- Will Shakespeare

The XXX Olympiad begins in London this weekend. For America, perhaps the world, these games could not have come at a better time.

✓ For athletes the culmination of preparing for the zenith of careers.

✓ Time for a feel-good in America too. A respite from drought, a dullard economy, excruciating media attention on senseless killings, and hateful political rhetoric.

Timing can be everything.
This week, patriotism. Wrap ourselves in the flag, chant U-S-A! in unison and tell ourselves “red, white and blue ain’t corny.”

America’s refrain: roll out America the Beautiful ... reach for their stars, go for the gold.

Before the cheering starts, a few items from one man’s Bucket List.

Things to notice, things I hope to see.

1. Going to Britain, USA is not favored to top the medal tote board at the end, but isn’t it timely? Underdog America goes against the Brits again is Bunker Hill and shot-heard-round-the-world perfect.

2. America’s Uni. As much as the United States grew from upstart colonial collective into a super power in so short a time, the face of the US delegation to London could be Unibrow. Anthony Davis.

Scrawny shooting guard on a so-so high school team ... ‘discovered’ one summer ... grew to player-to-watch ... to media darling ... blossomed to college player of the year ... slipped on an NCAA championship ring ... rocketed to first pick in NBA draft ... dropped then added to USA basketball team ... will a gold medal be next?

All before Davis’s 20th birthday, March 11, 2013.

If the kid were a stock on Wall Street today, his name would be in a sentence with Apple, Xerox, Mexican Grill and whatever Warren Buffett is buying.

Timing can be everything.
Favorites?

3. Reese Hoffa, 5-11, 315-pound shot putter born in Louisville. Hoffa’s nickname ‘Unknown Shot Putter,’ says much. Reese Hoffa Olympian says more.

4. Tyson Gay, sprinter (Lexington Lafayette). Already a three-time world champion at 100 meters, Gay may be USA’s best hope against Jamaican self-proclaimed superman Usain Bolt.

5. Stephanie Hightower. London could be a mountain-top experience for this member of the US delegation. USA Track and Field president, Hightower, now 54, was an All-American sprinter at Ohio State. She began her journey as a skinny sprinter at Fort Knox High School in the 1970s.

6. Favorite underdog. Claire Donahue. 100 meter butterfly. Western Kentucky University graduate and pride of Lenoir City, Tennessee (population 8,764), Donahue may be more surprised to make it to London than those who had never heard of her (blush). Donahue could become America’s next Cinderella story. Think: Lenoir City, Tennessee to front of a Wheaties cereal box, and all that goes with it.

The London Olympics opening ceremony is Friday evening.

COLLEGE FOOTBALL
Kentucky and Louisville

coaches wedged their way into a news cycle last week alongside the British Open, JoPa’s statue removal at (un)Happy Valley and media-stroke on Dwight Howard’s ego.

UofL’s Charlie Strong continued to win hearts and minds while UK’s Joker Phillips did his best to make the best of a bad hand dealt him before the SEC coach-media meet in Hoover, Alabama.

Strong’s visits to Kosair’s Children’s Hospital, a youth football clinic in his city’s west end last week, earned a Pay-It-Forward newspaper headline and opportunity to tell a Louisville reporter, “My role as a head coach is to go touch as many lives as I can.”

Genuine, admirable ... and timely.

Phillips by contrast already saddled by increased ticket prices, sagging ticket sales and a feeble four or three-game Mini-Pack gimmick, answered questions that begged for no comment.

Ironic, UK ticket sale tactics have become a reminder of Howard Schnellenberger’s first years at UofL. Tickets to Cardinal games went for a song and/or a coupon from Krogers.

Today, in a league CBS-Sports bought for a billion dollars and tickets are a premium in every other SEC town south of our state line at Jellico, Mitch Barnhart is pitching mini-packs.

Phillips had to field questions about hot seats too which, at the least damages recruiting. His name is 31st on one hot seat list behind Tennessee’s Derek Dickey at fifth and Florida’s Will Muschamp 23rd.

Kentucky, media types predict, will win no SEC games and finish last in the league.

A more sunny view from here – low expectation can be an ideal place to launch motivational speeches i.e. “men, it’s us against the world! Lets go prove ‘em all wrong!”

When asked the question UK football coaches have dreaded since Bear Bryant was given a cigarette lighter while Adolph Rupp got a Cadillac, Phillips waffled. “Isn’t Kentucky a “basketball school,” he was asked. Trying to dance with this ugly one, he waffled and said any exposure of UK’s logo helps his program.

If ever a media query begged for a Les Miles-style reply, this was it. Phillips ought to have responded, “next question!”

COURTNEY LEE
Western Kentucky coach Ray

Harper’s recruiting pitch added a paragraph last week when former Hilltopper Courtney Lee signed with the Boston Celtics.

A fan favorite at Western, Lee will suit up for the Celtics at $5 million a season.

Hope here is, Lee is as good a fit in Boston as it appears on paper. His run-the-floor on every possession style could put him on the business end of Rajon Rondo passes often enough to make Ray Allen a fond memory.

BASEBALL’S BEST

Hall of Fame speeches at Cooperstown in July can be too long, emotional or, hit a home run. In 2005 Ryan Sandberg’s speech was out-of-the-park perfect.

But last Sunday former Cincinnati Red Barry Larkin hit a grand slam. His speech was heroic, grateful, humbling, genuine and timely.

If you missed it, Google Larkin’s Hall of Fame acceptance speech on the internet.

And so it goes.

Slow in the local sports world, but that’s about to change

As I mentioned last week, things are a bit slow right now in the local sports world, with fall sports at the schools just now in the practice stages and none of the seasons yet underway.

Golf, volleyball and soccer will be up first in high school seasons, followed by football and then cross country, which is the last fall sport in the lineup to get underway and to finish.

At this juncture, schedules are still being finalized for some of the sports, with matches still being added and dates being tweaked, but we have been given some scheduling information from CCHS Athletic Director Mike Beard - as he has it available at press time.

So, the information we have right now shows that golf will get underway even before the start of the 2012-13 school year with the Golf Dawgs playing in the Cumberland County Invitational next Monday, July 30, at Dale Hollow Lake State Resort Park.

The Lady Golf Dawgs will hold their first match on Tuesday, July 31, going up against Adair and Cumberland County at DHLSRP. The Golf Dawgs travel to take on Warren East on Saturday, August 4, then return home for a double-header with the Lady Golf Dawgs at Dale Hollow facing Metcalfe and Cumberland County on August 7.

Boys soccer is set to get underway next Thursday, although that time and location has not yet been finalized. The first game that currently appears finalized on the schedule sees the varsity team traveling to Taylor County on August 13, with the first home match slated for August 14 against Barren County (5:30).

Girls soccer gets underway August 6 with a scrimmage at Glasgow, and the season opener being an away game at Whitley County on August 16 (5:30). The first home match at this time is slated for August 18 against Butler County at 10:00 a.m.

The volleyball season gets started with a tournament appearance in Barren County August 10-11, with the first home match for the Volley Dawgs to be against Cumberland County on August 13 (5:00).

Clinton County’s football season is set for an August 17 start when the Gridiron Dawgs take on Wayne County in a home game with a slated 7:00 p.m. scheduled kickoff - I’m expecting tailgating activities would get underway around 5:30.

Calm now - but I told you it was going to get busy. More schedules will be released in the next few weeks as they become finalized.

Georgia’s Strongest Man has ties to Albany

On June 9, 2012, Wesley Claborn won the title of Georgia’s Strongest Man. He is the youngest man to ever win the event. Since turning 20 in March, the 300 lb. Claborn has won Men’s Heavyweight competitions in three states--Kentucky, Georgia and Tennessee. Pictured are Wesley Claborn and his grandfather, Bobby Atwell of Albany, after winning the Beast of the Bluegrass in Lawrenceburg, Kentucky.

Park Director Bobby Reneau expects about as many vendors to set up at the park this year as in the past, despite the less than great economic climate. Vendors there usually begin setting up as early as Tuesday the week of the sale and some begin selling their items by mid-week. The U.S. 127 Sale extends to the southern tip of Michigan to the north and covers approximately 675 miles on through Ohio, Kentucky, Tennessee and ends in Alabama. The sale began in 1987 and now runs from Hudson, Michigan south to Chattanooga, Tennessee, then switches to the Lookout Mountain Parkway, continuing to Gadsden, Alabama. The original intent of the sale was to prove the back roads have something to offer, and that the interstate system was not the only mode of travel. Many counties and cities throughout the sale route also put together other promotional attractions for the out-of-town bargain seekers to enjoy, as well as enticing many to stay awhile while there. Along with the activities surrounding the sale also brings the dangers associated with much heavier traffic volume, especially in areas where vendor locations are set up. Also, some areas aren't equipped for a lot of parking space, meaning several vehicles may be parked in dangerous locations along the roadways. Motorists are urged to slow down next weekend and be alert for pedestrians and vehicles making sudden stops. The Fentress County Chamber of Commerce in Jamestown, Tennessee has served as headquarters for the 127 Corridor Sale since 1995 and also claims the origin of the event. Mike Walker, the county executive in Fentress County in 1987 came up with the idea of the sale, worked hard to make it happen, and planned for it to be an annual event.

Cookeville Regional Medical Center proudly welcomes surgeon Charles T. Huddleston, MD. He has joined the practice of Middle Tennessee Surgical Specialists with Drs. Scott Copeland, Brian Gerndt, Jeff McCarter and Jeff Moore. Dr. Huddleston is pleased to be relocating to the Upper Cumberland area from Tullahoma and will be practicing the full spectrum of general surgery with a special interest in advanced laparoscopic cases, bariatric and metabolic surgery.

"I love the technically challenging aspects of bariatric surgery and feel that it is such a rewarding field," said Dr. Huddleston. "To see someone get the benefits that come with the weight loss following bariatric surgery is so very fulfilling."

Dr. Huddleston will be offering bariatric procedures at Cookeville Regional Medical Center, including laparoscopic gastric banding (lap band) and sleeve gastrectomy.

Raised nearby in Livingston where he graduated valedictorian of the class of 1993 from Livingston Academy, Dr. Huddleston received an undergraduate degree in chemistry from Tennessee Technological University and went on to receive his medical degree from East Tennessee State University James H. Quillen College of Medicine in Johnson City in 2001. There he was selected to the prestigious Alpha Omega Alpha National Medical Honor Society. He performed his surgical residency at East Tennessee State University as well as a clinical fellowship in surgical research. Dr. Huddleston also served twice as a medical officer in support of Operation Iraqi Freedom from 2006 to 2009. He remains an active member of the 278th Armored Cavalry Regiment, Tennessee Army National Guard as a field surgeon with the rank of Major.

Dr. Huddleston, his wife Ammie and his two sons Carter and Austin look forward to returning home to the Cookeville community.

Dr. Huddleston will begin seeing patients in Cookeville as of August 1 and may be reached at Middle Tennessee Surgical Specialists by calling 931-528-1992

Appeal

Upon searching the car, several items found inside was consistent with the manufacture of methamphetamine.

According to the six-page ruling upholding Neal's conviction, KSP Detective Scott Hammond testified at trial that the items found were consistent with the one-step method of manufacturing meth, although no actual meth was found at the scene.

In his own defense, Neal admitted the marijuana and rolling papers were his, but stated the car that he had stolen from a family friend was sitting in an empty field and denied any knowledge of the items in the front seat or in the trunk.

The defendant moved for a directed verdict at the close of the Commonwealth's case and at the close of his trial, with both motions being denied by Circuit Judge Eddie C. Lovelace.

The jury found Neal guilty of manufacturing methamphetamine, possession of marijuana and possession of drug paraphernalia and fixed his sentence at 18 years. The court also denied the defendant's motion for a new trial and imposed the jury sentence.

Neal argued in his appeal he was entitled to a directed verdict, but the appeals court judge who wrote the opinion cited case law stating, "On motion for directed verdict, the trial court must draw all fair and reasonable inferences from the evidence in favor of the Commonwealth. If the evidence is sufficient to induce a reasonable juror to believe beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant is guilty, a directed verdict should not be given. For the purpose of ruling on the motion, the trial court must assume that the evidence for the Commonwealth is true, but reserving to the jury questions as to the credibility and weight to be given to such testimony."

Neal also contended the Commonwealth failed to prove the elements set for in a KRS to find him guilty of manufacturing methamphetamine, arguing he could not have knowingly possessed the chemicals and equipment because he had stolen the car, but the court wrote, "However, knowledge can be inferred from circumstantial evidence, including control over the location in which the items were found... and the jury could also infer Neal's knowledge of the items based on his flight from law enforcement."

Second, he argued the Commonwealth failed to provide that he intended to manufacture meth because police did not find all the chemicals and equipment required to manufacture it. However, the trial court instructed the jury that under KRS 218A.1432(1)(b), which requires proof that a person knowingly and unlawfully, "(w)ith intent to manufacture...possesses two or more chemicals or items of equipment to manufacture meth."

The court wrote, "The police found considerably more than two chemicals and two items of equipment necessary for the manufacture of methamphetamine."

The decision to uphold the lower court's conviction was unanimous among the three-judge panel.

Another appeal from the Clinton Circuit Court was also upheld, involving a conviction of theft by unlawful taking over $500, in the case of Commonwealth vs. Joey Rhule.

In that case the Commonwealth alleged the charges were a result of attempted insurance fraud on the behalf of the defendant.

In the appeals court decision upholding the conviction, it noted the circumstances began in July of 2007 then Rhule purchased a new Ford New Holland tractor, but the following summer, defaulted on his payments to the financing company, which hired an agent to repossess the tractor. However, when the agent attempted to take possession, the Appellant (Rhule) claimed the tractor had been stolen and the local sheriff's department filed such a report in October of 2008 with the defendant insurance carrier subsequently paying proceeds of $16,575 to the finance company for the remaining balance of the purchase.

Several months later, Michael Craig observed the tractor at the home of his cousin, Joey Craig, a co-defendant in the case, and unaware that his cousin was not the rightful owner, bought the tractor and stored it at his mother's, (Dean Craig) home.

In February of 2010, she noticed a pickup truck repeatedly driving by her home and when she returned from running an errand, noticed the tractor was gone and reported such to police. Meanwhile, several witnesses, including a police officer, observed the defendant driving a red truck with the lettering "Rhule Farms" and pulling a New Holland tractor. When police officers located Rhule, the lettering had been removed and he (defendant) eventually took police to another property where the tractor was located, claiming the tractor was once stolen from him and he had gone to retrieve it after seeing it parked at the Craig home.

In March, a Clinton County Grand Jury indicted the defendant for theft by unlawful taking over $10,000 and following a jury trial in June 2011, the defendant was convicted of theft by unlawful taking over $500 with a one-year sentence imposed.

The defendant first argued he was entitled to a directed verdict because the Commonwealth did not prove the market value of the tractor at the time of its alleged theft from the Craig home in 2011 and also contended Commonwealth failed to establish the worth was over $500 at the time the tractor was taken in 2011.

The appeals court disagreed with that argument, citing various preceding court rulings.

The defendant was initially indicted for theft of property over $10,000. However, at the conclusion of the Commonwealth's case, Rhule, through his attorney, moved for a directed verdict, arguing that the value of the tractor on the date of the February 2011 theft from Craig had not been proven. The trial court denied the motion, but did rule the Commonwealth had not presented evidence that the tractor was worth $10,000, thus the prosecution amended the indictment to conform to the proof and the jury was instructed on theft by unlawful taking over $500.

The appeals court also rejected the appellant claim that he was entitled to a directed verdict because he should have been charged under KRS 514.050 rather than 514.030, the latter which states a person is guilty of theft by unlawful taking or disposition when he unlawfully: (a) Takes or exercises control over moveable property of another with intent to deprive him thereof; or (b) Obtains moveable property of another or any interest therein with intent to benefit himself or another not entitled thereto.

The court wrote, "The Commonwealth's general theory at trial was that the entire series of events beginning with the tractor's disappearance in 2008 was orchestrated by Rhule, with help from Joey Craig, to defraud the insurance company. In support thereof, the Commonwealth presented evidence that the tractor disappeared only after Rhule learned that it was going to be repossessed, and the ensuring insurance claim released the defendant from a debt that he had defaulted on. Thereafter, appellant unlawfully entered the (Dean) Craig property and took possession of a tractor that no longer belonged to him.

The court further wrote, "...

we conclude that viewing the evidence in the light most favorable to the Commonwealth, appellant's actions of taking the tractor and hiding it on another piece of property, as well as his attempt to alter the appearance of his truck after doing so, support the charged offense under KRS 415.030."

Finally, the appellant claimed the Commonwealth engaged in prosecutorial misconduct during closing argument, specifically by commenting that Michael Craig suffered severe economic loss as a result of both defendant's actions, claiming it prejudiced the jury against him.

The appeals court again disagreed, stating, "Kentucky courts have consistently held that opening and closing arguments are not evidence and prosecutors are afforded wide latitude during both. In fact, "to justify reversal, the misconduct of the prosecutor must be so serious as to render the entire trial fundamentally unfair."

(Michael) Craig had testified at trial and the jury was aware that he lost several thousand dollars as a result of the criminal actions of the appellant and co-defendant. As such, the court wrote, "we cannot conclude that the prosecutor's reference to Michael's economic loss rendered the trial fundamentally unfair."

Also in this case, the majority of the three-judge panel voted to uphold the lower court conclusion.

Grand jury returns several multi-count indictments

The Clinton County Grand Jury convened in regular session last Monday, July 16 and returned true bills in open court against seven individuals, with several of the indictments alleging multi-count charges.

The following indictments were handed down in Clinton Circuit Court last week:

* The alleged offense (six counts) of theft by unlawful taking or disposition and a count of burglary-second degree, against James "Jamie" E. Brumley, III, when on or about April 24 through May 28, the defendant took or exercised control over several items of moveable property belonging to Crudewell Oil, Porco Feed and Propane, ATS Construction, Porco Fertilizer, Jeff Hunley and Albany Quarry, each having said values of over $500 and entering and remaining unlawfully in the residence of Albany Quarry with the intent to commit a crime.

* The alleged offenses of wanton endangerment-first degree (four counts), failure to maintain insurance, DUI-first offense and operating on a suspended or revoked license, against Thomas Johnson, when on or about May 25, the defendant drove his vehicle from Old Burkesville Road onto Hwy. 639, crossed the yellow line and struck a vehicle operated by Scott Westergreen, creating a substantial danger of death or serious physical injury to Westergreen, Kimberly D. Nasret and two minor children, passengers in the Westergreen vehicle and at the time of the accident was driving under the influence with no insurance and on a suspended or revoked license.

* The alleged offenses of possession of a controlled substance-first degree (meth), possession of marijuana, possession of a controlled substance first degree-first offense and promoting contraband first degree, against Matthew Parrigin, when on or about May 3, the defendant possessed methamphetamine, marijuana and a controlled substance containing any quantity of meth and had 4 1/2 Alprazolam pills, a marijuana cigarette and a baggie of methamphetamine in his possession while an inmate at the Clinton County Jail.

* The alleged offenses of criminal trespass-second degree, theft by unlawful taking or disposition over $500 and third degree burglary, against Cody B. Owens and Tammy L. York when on or about March 22 and through June 13, the defendants unlawfully remained in a building belonging to Jimmy R. Patton without permission, took or exercised control over building materials owned by Patton entered or remained unlawfully in the building owned by Patton.

* The alleged offenses of tampering with physical evidence and theft by unlawful taking or disposition, against Paulette M. Wilson, when on or about June 6, the defendant unlawfully took or exercised control over an Intex 10 ft. x 30 inch Easy Set Swimming Pool, the moveable property of Fred's Inc., having a value of less than $500 and attempted to dispose of said pool by concealing it.

* The alleged offense of theft by unlawful taking or disposition over $500 against Jodi Stinson, when on or about January 18, the defendant took or exercised control over a wallet containing $700, the moveable property of Jimmy Cordell.

(Editor's Note: An indictment is a statement of probable cause to believe an offense has been committed and further court proceedings are warranted. Those individuals named in an indictment are presumed innocent unless proven guilty in court.)

WE UNDERSTAND THE SPECIAL NEEDS OF TODAY'S FARMER

Life on the farm may look like fun and games but in reality it's hard work and long hours. Most people don't realize the amount of agriculture related goods that are produced locally or the contribution they make to our economy. We understand and appreciate the role of local farmers. If you're a local farmer and know of a way we can help, come talk with us, helping people is the reason we're here.

Back to School Bash another huge success

Over one thousand people attended the fifth annual Back to School Bash on Friday, July 19th at Clinton County High School.

The event was co-sponsored by Safe-Schools / Healthy Students SAFE-T Project, Title I, Cooperative Extension Office, Equity Group - Keystone Foods, ECC and AES Family Resource Centers, CCMS and CCHS Youth Services Centers, AmeriCorps, 21st Century Community Learning Center, GEAR UP, Clinton County Physical Education Program (PEP), Clinton Elementary School Counseling Program, Clinton County Migrant Program, Clinton County Adult Education, Clinton County Public Library, Clinton County Wellness Center, Monticello Banking Company, Somerset Community College, Albany Lions Club, Associates in Eye Care, and Intrust Health Care.

Children enjoyed several inflatables, while parents visited booths to collect school supplies, informational materials, and other free items.

Participants received notebooks, folders, composition notebooks, pencils, ink pens, colored pencils, crayons, glue sticks, and much more.

A lip sync for kids and adults was also sponsored by Save-a-Lot Foods. Special thanks to Jackie Flowers for emceeing the event.

Prizes including four Kindle Fires, backpacks full of school supplies, basketballs, soccer balls, footballs, jump ropes, Burger King and McDonald's gift cards, and Wellness Center memberships were given away at the end of the event.

All participants enjoyed several bundle openings and free food. Following the event, a fabulous fireworks show on the baseball field was sponsored by Algodrugs.

Thanks to everyone who worked hard to make the Back to School Bash a success!!! Special thanks to Foothills Academy for help with setup and tear down!

SUBSCRIBE TODAY!

Another fantastic crowd was in attendance at this year's Back to School Bash. The annual event features a host of entertainment and giveaways as the summer winds down and thoughts begin turning toward the start of a new school year.

One of the most popular events at the Back to School Bash, is the Lip Sync Contest. One of the featured acts is shown in the above photo.

KY 738 in Clinton County to be temporarily closed, beginning July 30th

Closure is part of U.S. 127 construction project

Beginning Monday, July 30th, KY 738 (Wolf River Dock Road) in Clinton County will be temporarily closed to through traffic between Fairgrounds Road (Mile Point 5.207) and Churntop Road (Mile Point 6.059).

The closure is for construction to tie TN 111 into the newly built U.S. 127.

Traffic can access KY 738 west of the construction by use of KY 553 and Fairgrounds Road and east of the construction by use of US 127.

The closure of KY 738 is expected to last four weeks. The starting date and duration of work may be adjusted for inclement weather or other unforeseeable delays.

Motorists may receive the latest road condition information by calling 511 or by logging onto <http://511.ky.gov/>.

RAY MULLINIX

September 4, 1948 ~ July 26, 2002

In Loving Memory

RAY MULLINIX

“The Voice of the Cumberland”

“Ray” seems such a simple name, for such a complex man; Who, from a mere boy, had a worthwhile plan.

From the attic of his beloved, boyhood home, He'd hone his skill as deejay, on his dad's microphone.

His broadcasting career was already on its feet. They called him, “WRG” of Baker Street”.

His voice in itself was a “God-given” gift. He used it to inspire, to lead, and uplift.

In sixty-nine, he gave his heart to Libby forever, And they, literally, made sweet music together.

Ray loved to sing, and play the guitar. “My Old Kentucky Home” was his favorite song, by far.

He even recorded a couple of tunes, With Darrell and Sid Scott. How they loved to croon!

Afflicted with cataracts, since he was a babe; He never let this obstacle stand in his way.

From deejay at WANY, to owning WKYR, Though his vision was dimmed, he shone like a star.

Ray was someone, on whom one could depend; Benevolent, compassionate, he never turned down a friend.

A born politician, and civic-minded leader; Both, qualities that made him a good “people greeter”.

Elected Representative of “the Bluegrass State”, An honor bestowed upon him in 1988.

He served in this office, for the next eight years; A voice for our community; an asset to his peers.

Ray wasn't fond of day, he much preferred the night. Perhaps it was because, he was his own “Ray” of light”.

He was a frequent partaker of fine wine and food, And the “midnight buffet”, at Norris and New.

Ray's voice, here, is now silent, but, indeed, he shines on; In all of our hearts, and our memories, most fond.

And 'though he has now passed, into heaven's slumber land, He'll forever be remembered as “the Voice of the Cumberland”.

UTILITY EASEMENT:
The Grantee shall receive an easement for any underground utility lines and water lines which may be necessary. Also, the Grantee shall have an easement onto the Grantor’s property as is necessary to install and maintain field lines required for a septic tank and system to serve the subject real estate. Said easement shall be approximately 40’ or as necessary for said installation and maintenance of the septic system.

SEPTIC TANK EASEMENT:
A septic tank easement to Norman Bruce and Joan Bruce is recorded at Deed Book 106, page 320 in the Clinton County Clerk’s Office.

RESTRICTIONS:
The above real estate is subject to the following restrictions. These restrictions shall bind the Grantee, his heirs and assigns:

1. No previously constructed or pre-fabricated building, trailer, or mobile home shall be located upon said property and construction of any dwelling shall not incorporate used lumber, imitation brick, or imitation stone siding, or have exposed cement block above ground level.

2. The above real estate shall be used for a single family, pri- vate dwelling purposes only. No more than one dwelling shall be erected, placed or suffered to remain upon any building lot. Also, no more than one storage building shall be placed upon any building lot.

3. The minimum foundation sizes for single story residences, exclusive of attached garages, carports, or basement, shall be no less than 960 square feet of ground floor area.

4. Before the Grantee offers the property to be sold to any other party, other than members of the immediate family of the prior Grantors, Thomas and Barbara Hadley, he shall first of- fer same to the prior Grantors, Thomas and Barbara Hadley. If they then refuse to purchase the property, or are deceased, the Grantee may then sell said property to said other party at the same or higher purchase price.

5. The Grantee shall not cut more than ½ of the existing tim- ber on the subject property without the prior written permission of the previous Grantors, Thomas and Barbara Hadley.

The Grantors herein herby swears and affirms that she has have complied with the restriction in the previous deed of con- veyance as listed above from Barbara Ann Hadley, et. vir, as recorded in Deed Book 111, page 323, which required an offer of first refusal before sale could be made to third parties. The Grantor states that she made said offer to Thomas and Barbara Hadley and that said parties refused to purchase the property, thus allowing this conveyance to Michael L. Evans.

TRACT TWO:
Being a tract of land located in the Grider Hill community of Clinton County, Kentucky, approximately nine miles north of Albany, Kentucky, and more particularly described as follows:

Unless stated otherwise, any monument referred to herein as a “rod and cap” is a set 5/8” diameter reinforcement rod eighteen (18) inches in length, with a yellow plastic cap stamped “Talbot 3149”. A “rod and cap” referred to as “existing” is an afore- said monument that was set in a previous survey. Also, any tree hereupon used as a corner, unless otherwise stated, is in sound condition and will be marked with sets of three horizontal hack marks about chest high on each property line side of said tree. The basis of the bearings was established by using the bearing system of The Pine thicket Subdivision as recorded in Plat Book 4, Page 32, Slide 330.

Beginning on an existing ½” rod in the east right-of-way line of a 30’ road, and the northwest corner to an access road leading to lot 15, said rod also being the southeast corner of lot 16, said rod also being N 03 degrees 06’ E --- 378.8’ from the centerline intersection of said 30’ road and Ky. 1266; thence, with said 30’ road N 21 degrees 49’ 00” W --- 64.53’ to an existing ½” rod; thence continuing with right-of-way line N 53 degrees 38’ 55” W --- 38.06’ to a rod and cap set this survey where a ½” rod was called for, the southeast corner of parcel 1; thence leaving said right-of-way line, and severing the land of the grantor with the east line of parcel 1 N 76 degrees 13’ 36” E --- 102.33’ to an existing ½” rod, the southwest corner of lot 15, and the south- east corner of lot 1 (Diane B. Kirkpatrick, Deed Book 111, Page 323); thence, with the south line of said lot 15 S 31 degrees 14’ 56” E --- 66.73’ to an existing ½” rod, a corner to aforesaid access road; thence, with north line of said access road S 57 de- grees 54’ 18” W --- 93.69’ to the point of beginning containing 0.166 acres.

Being a part of lot 16 of Pine Thicket Subdivision as recorded in Plat Book 4, Page 32, Slide 330. Same being a part of the same property conveyed to Barbara Ann Hadley by deed dated the 24th day of December, 1991 from Alvin C. Cook said deed being of record in Deed Book 88, Page 239, Office of the Coun- ty Court Clerk, Clinton County, Kentucky.

Being the same property conveyed to Michael L. Evan s from Diane B. Kirkpatrick by Warranty Deed recorded March 30, 2006 in Deed Book 131, page 542 in the Clinton County Clerk’s Office.

The successful bidder or bidders may elect to pay the purchase price in full at the time of the sale or be required to pay ten (10%) percent of bid purchase price down on the date of the sale and bal- ance of purchase price will be due and payable on or before 30 days from the date of the sale with interest thereon at the rate of 12% per annum; however, the purchaser may pay all or part of the purchase price prior to the maturity with all accrued interest due at the time of the said payment. If the sale be had on credit, the purchaser shall execute and deliver to the order of the Master Commissioner, his or her bond due and payable in 30 days, bearing interest at the legal rate of twelve percent (12%) per annum from date of sale until paid, with good and sufficient surety thereon and said sale shall likewise be secured by a lien upon the said property sold, which shall have the same force and effect of a judgment and said bond with acceptable surety shall be executed immediately after the sale; upon default of the terms of said bond the Master Commissioner shall immediately resell the property on the same terms and conditions set out herein.

The 2012 and subsequent property taxes shall be paid by the Pur- chaser.

Public Notice

The Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) affords parents and students over 18 years of age (“eligible students”) certain rights with respect to the student’s educational records. These rights are:

- The right to inspect and review the student’s education records within 45 days of the day the school receives a request for access. Parents of eligible students should submit to the school principal a written request that identifies the record(s) they wish to inspect. The school official will make arrangements for access and notify the parent or eligible student of the time and place where the records may be inspected.
- The right to request the amendment of the student’s education records that the parent or eligible student believes are inaccurate, misleading, or otherwise in violation of the student’s privacy rights under FERPA. Parents or eligible students who wish to ask the school to amend a record should write the school principal, clearly identify the part of the record they want changed and specify why it should be changed. If the school decides not to amend the records as required by the parent or eligible student, the school will notify the parent or eligible student of the decision and advise them of their right to a hearing regarding the request for amendment. Additional information regarding the hearing producers will be provided to the parent or eligible student when notified of the right to a hearing.
- The right of privacy of personally identifiable information in the student’s education records, except that FERPA authorities disclosure without consent. One exception, which permits disclosure without consent, is disclosure to school officials with legitimate educational interests. A school official is a person employed by the school as an administrator, supervisor, instructor, or support staff member (including health or medical staff and law enforcement unit personnel); a person serving on the school board; a person or company with whom the School has outsourced services or functions it would otherwise use its own employees to perform (such as attorney, auditor, medical consultant, or therapist); a parent or student serving on an official committee, such as a disciplinary or grievance committee; or a parent, student, or other volunteer assisting another school official in performing his or her tasks. A school official has a legitimate educational interest if the official needs to review an educational record in order to fulfill his or her professional responsibilities.
- Upon request, the school discloses education records without consent to officials of another school district in which a student seeks or intends to enroll, or is already enrolled if the disclosure is for purposes of the student’s enrollment or transfer. (Note: FERPA requires a school district to make a reasonable attempt to notify the parent or student of the records unless it states in its annual notification that it intends to forward records on request.)
- The right to file a complaint with the U.S. Department of Education concerning alleged failures by the school to comply with the requirements of FERPA.

For more information on how to file an alleged complaint, contact: Julie Daniels, Clinton County Board of Education, 2352 N. Hwy. 127, Albany, Ky. 42602. Phone: (606) 387-6480.

Educational Records

The Clinton County School District keeps educational records in a secure location in each school and board office. The Clinton County School District obtains written consent from a parent or eligible student (age 18 or who is attending a post secondary institution) before disclosing personally identifiable information to any entity or individual not authorized to receive it under FERPA. For students who have been determined eligible for Special Education, educational records will be destroyed at the request of the parents when they are no longer needed to provide education programs or services. The Clinton County School District may destroy the educational records of a child without parent request three years after they are no longer needed to provided educational programs or services. Parents are advised that data contained in the records may later be needed for Social Security benefits or other purposes. The Clinton County School District may retain, for an indefinite period of time, a record of the student’s name, address, telephone number, grades, attendance records, classes attended, grade level completed, and year completed.

Child Find for children with disabilities in need of Special Education

The Clinton County School District has an ongoing “Child Find” system, which is designed to locate, identify and evaluate any child residing in a home, facility, or residence within its geographical boundaries, age three (3) to twenty-one (21) years, who may have a disability and be in need of Special Education or 504 services. This includes children who are not in school; those who are in public, private, or home school; those who are highly mobile such as children who are migrant or homeless; and those who are advancing from grade to grade, who may need but are not receiving Special Education or 504 services. The district’s “Child Find” system includes children with disabilities attending private or home schools within the school district’s boundaries who may need special education services.

Children eligible for Special Education include those children with disabilities who have autism, deaf-blindness, developmental delay, emotional-behavioral disability, hearing impairment, mental disability, multiple disabilities, orthopedic impairment, other health impairment, specific learning disability, speech or language impairment, traumatic brain injury, or visual impairment and who because of such an impairment need Special Education services.

Children eligible for 504 services include those children who have a current physical or mental impairment that currently substantially limits some major life activity which causes the student’s ability to access the school environment or school activities to be substantially limited.

The Clinton County School District will make sure any child enrolled in its district who qualifies for Special Education or 504 services, regardless of how severe the disability, is provided appropriate Special Education or 504 services at no cost to the parents of the child.

Parents, relatives, public and private agency employees, and concerned citizens are urged to help the Clinton County School District find any child who may have a disability and need Special Education or 504 services. The district needs to know the name and age, or date of birth of the child; the name, address, and phone number(s) of the parents or guardian; the possible disability; and other information to determine if Special Education or 504 services are needed.

Letters and phone calls are some of the ways the Clinton County School District collects the information needed. The information the school district collects will be used to contact the parents of the child and find out if the child needs to be evaluated or referred for Special Education or 504 services.

If you know of a child who lives within the boundaries of the Clinton County School District, who may have a disability, and may need but is not receiving Special Education or 504 services, please notify the Clinton County School District. This includes children who are attending private or home schools. Please call 387-9452 or send the information to:

Eddie Tallent, Director of Special Education/Section 504 Coordinator, Clinton County Schools, 2353 North Hwy. 127, Albany, Ky. 42602, phone 387-9452.

“Child Find” activities will continue throughout the school year. As part of these efforts the Clinton County School District will use screening information, student records, and basic assessment information it collects on all children in the district to help locate these children who have a disability and need Special Education or 504 services. Any information the district collects through “Child Find” is maintained confidentially.

If you know of someone who may need this notice translated to another language, given orally, or delivered in some other manner or mode of communication, please contact the Director of Pupil Personnel, the Director of Special Education or the Section 504 Coordinator at the address or phone number listed above for the Clinton County Schools.
